

WebEx™

Add a dynamic visual element to any Audio Conference

WebEx is a flexible web conferencing service, which can help you eliminate the hassle and costs associated with travelling to face-to-face meetings, and is designed to accelerate productivity throughout your organisation. With WebEx, a chairperson can share applications and documents straight from their desktop in real time with all participants. All you need is a telephone, personal computer and an internet connection, and then you can meet and collaborate at anytime from anywhere in the world.

Benefits of WebEx

- Increased productivity and reduced costs
It's simple. Launch or join a meeting using any web browser. Participants from almost anywhere in the world can meet online instantly at anytime. Create productive, interactive meetings with the ability to share slides, spreadsheets or applications with your virtual audience, just as you would in a face-to-face meeting. Remove the need to travel, saving precious time and reduce costs.
- Competitive advantage
You can respond more quickly and effectively by using web conferencing as a quick and convenient way to meet your customers and suppliers in between face-to-face meetings. Ultimately this creates better business practice by enabling you to make informed decisions, and progress projects more quickly.
- Easy to implement
WebEx can be integrated with business processes, systems and third party applications, meaning you can easily deploy it across your department or organisation.

Popular uses include:

Features of WebEx

- Scaleable solution
WebEx gives you one collaboration solution for your entire organisation. It has the ability to engage from 2 to 3,000 participants, enabling you to run anything from small, spontaneous meetings to larger, structured presentations and seminars.
- Efficiently share employee resource
You can hold impromptu or scheduled meetings, allowing for scarce skills to be efficiently deployed and utilised world wide*. With the added option to record meetings for future reference, training or replay purposes if participants were unable to attend the meeting.
- Security
Working with existing firewall technology, WebEx provides unlisted meetings, password protection, and encryption to protect sensitive data. The chairperson has the ability to lock and unlock the conference and any meeting participant can spontaneously share a presentation without uploading the file to a server.
- Desktop integration suite
Initiate meetings immediately from any Microsoft® Office application and from your Yahoo!® browser.
- Richer meeting experience
Create greater impact during conference calls by incorporating multimedia in your presentation: Powerpoint™, Flash™ animations, and streaming audio and video, helping you to engage your audience and retain attendees focus longer.
- Multiple language capabilities
Conduct meetings in your choice of English, Spanish, French, German, Swedish, Japanese, Korean, Simplified Chinese or Traditional Chinese.

How it works

All you need is a phone line, PC and an internet connection.

You can book a meeting directly from your Outlook, creating a calendar invite containing the meeting URL link and web meeting entry passcodes.

This calendar invite can be sent out to all participants, enabling you to chair any meeting from your desk with anyone, at any time, no matter where they are*.

To start your meeting all that is required is for you and your participants to click on the URL link contained in the calendar invite, entering their meeting details to log into the web console. Once logged into the web console, everyone can view the documents on screen that you are discussing in real-time.

The meeting can also accommodate live question and answer sessions, instant voting and one-to-one text chat between participants.
